

ABSTRACT

The present invention is directed to methods and compositions useful in producing cells and animals having a disruption or modification of a target gene. Vectors useful in producing 5 these cells and animals are described. In addition, methods of screening and enriching cells comprising a targeted gene modification are provided.